J&J Contractors Awarded $29 Million Construction and Renovation Project for Soddy Daisy Middle School

Chattanooga, TN, March 2nd, 2026 – J&J Contractors is proud to announce it has been awarded the comprehensive construction and renovation project for Soddy Daisy Middle School, a transformative $29 million investment designed to address overcrowding and modernize the learning environment for students and staff.

Located approximately 20 minutes north of Chattanooga, the school was originally opened in 1960 to house grades 7 through 9. This multi-phase construction and renovation project is expected to span nearly three years, which includes upgrades to existing spaces and a new gymnasium, marking a significant milestone for the school and the surrounding community. Pre-construction activities are currently underway, with full-scale construction scheduled to begin in October.

The project will focus on expanding and upgrading facilities to ease crowding and create enhanced education spaces that support both current and future student needs. The renovation has already generated strong community interest.

“We’re honored to partner with the school and community on such a meaningful project,” said Aaron Pack, VP and Project Manager of J&J Contractors. “Investing in education facilities is an investment in the future. Our team is committed to delivering a safe, efficient, and high-quality project that will serve students for generations to come.”

With decades of experience in large-scale institutional and educational construction, J&J Contractors brings extensive expertise in project management, phased construction, and minimizing disruption to active campuses. The team will work closely with school officials and local stakeholders to ensure the project stays on schedule and is aligned with the Board of Education’s long-term vision.

As construction progresses, J&J Contractors will continue to provide updates on progress and milestones related to the project.
